RICHTER INTELLIGENCE

Richter Intelligence enables private sector leaders and high net worth individuals a competitive edge through timely, accurate, and actionable information. Intelligence advisory, executive brand protection, and an array of enterprise security offerings allow executives and individuals opportunity to improve their security posture while gaining a unique and holistic understanding of the business and security environments in which they operate.

Our white-glove intelligence services are specifically tailored to our clients' needs, allowing them to direct their limited resources to the most important issues, in the most cost-efficient way. Complemented by core risk and technology advisory offerings, Richter is uniquely positioned to assess vulnerabilities to personnel, systems, facilities, communications, and reputation. An informed strategy can mitigate emerging risks to personal and corporate security and help you seize timely opportunities across local and international markets.

Richter's intelligence efforts are all-encompassing. Our team assesses security, reputational, and regulatory risks; insider threats, emergency preparedness and crisis management; geopolitical developments and incidents; and market trends, shifts, policies and electoral issues. We consult subject matter experts to support analysis and employ intelligence tradecraft to identify, decode, and understand targets. By placing this information in the client's business context, key opportunities, risks, and strategies can be weighed to facilitate strategic decision-making for the short and long-term.

Our service offerings can be tailored and applied to meet the needs of organizations and executives or high net worth individuals and their families.

SERVICES FOR ORGANIZATIONS AND INDIVIDUALS

INTELLIGENCE ADVISORY

Our investigations enable clients to understand threat landscapes, potential partners, competitors, and/or acquisition targets to make informed, time-sensitive decisions. We add value by highlighting patterns and probabilities and can further investigate substantial risks to organizations, executive teams, individuals or families.

We analyze an issue, event, policy or probability and provide a strategic edge. Our analysts combine extensive open source research, human intelligence sources, cyber threat intelligence, and industry experts to help manage risks, seize opportunities, and get ahead of the competition. We can design, improve, and adapt business and security strategies, and our intelligence products are crafted to be brief, timely, accurate, and actionable to facilitate decision-making.

EXECUTIVE BRAND PROTECTION

Whether working for an individual or family, or an executive team and their corporation, our strategists provide tailored security and business advisory services and a host of security assessments to evaluate and improve security posture. We aim to stand by our clients every step of the way, tailoring our services to tackle emerging issues and pursue key opportunities.

With prevention in mind, we assess the internet exposure of executive teams, key employees, and high net worth or politically-exposed individuals. Our team goes one step further to also assess the physical security of key executives and individuals. We assess the physical and cyber security of residences with a focus on personal safety, privacy, and emergency response. Additionally, our personal security assessments take into account routines, habits, and other personal details to provide a comprehensive assessment of personal safety.

ENTERPRISE SECURITY

Our threat intelligence experts are trained to research, monitor, and respond to cyber threats. We can monitor specific domains and dark web forums continuously with real-time analysis, or passively for long-term strategic value. Our analysis helps our clients understand their level of exposure and threat actors' capabilities, motives, and behaviors. We focus on identifying sources of compromise, designing remediation strategies, and establishing safeguards to prevent future incidents.

Our security assessments and red team exercises test your facility's physical security, focusing on threat detection where cyber and physical systems converge. These exercises stress the capabilities of modern spaces and systems, measure response times and efforts, and expose key threats to your organization's physical security, including social engineering.
