Unless and until it's established otherwise, I will accept Mr. Kurr as a member of the bar of this Court and Mr. Cohn as admitted pro hac vice and well known to this Court with respect to their assertions that they represent 47 individual estates, and nothing more, not as an entity with full powers designated by lawyers, not as a committee with representative authority for the 47 or beyond the 47, but simply as lawyers representing 47 people. Which means that every pleading from now on will have to be in the names of those 47 people, every motion, every response, every plan and every disclosure statement will be in the name of those 47 individuals. And if it becomes apparent that these lawyers lack authority or have lacked authority, appropriate measures may be taken by those with standing. So ordered.
